Natural Stone

The timeless elegance and instant appeal of natural stone from Clarke Stone quarries has graced private homes and public buildings since the 1930's. Today we are continuing that tradition by harvesting natural stone from our own quarries in Ireland with limestone and sandstone of superior quality and expert finishing that has set the standards for the industry for three generations.

Talk to us about your home, building, wall or garden feature and we will provide exactly what you need. This will ultimately save time and money for you by making the mason's life easier and thus give you the exact finish you are looking for.

We use our own quarries simply because it means we can assure you of consistent quality and guarantee that the stone you use to finish your property will maintain its appearance and structure for years to come.

By using natural stone you are investing not only in the longevity of your project but also in it's final value because there is no other building material with the same appeal to future buyers of your property.

Decorative Products

What for?

- Cills
- Quoins
- String Course
- Copings
- Pier Caps
- Plinths
- Arches
- Window Heads

Why?

- Add a beautiful finishing touch to any home, garden or commercial property
- Looks and feels exactly like cut stone

Our range of decorative pre-cast products will add those special finishing touches to any home or garden. Using crushed sandstone or limestone from our quarries, we make reconstituted stone cills, quoins, string course, copings, pier caps, plinths, arches and window heads. In yellow granite, white granite, sandstone and natural grey, they become instant features at a fraction of the cost of hand-cut stone pieces yet they look and feel exactly the same.

Using state-of-the-art production techniques and skills as well as high quality naturally coloured materials we will design and manufacture reconstituted stone products that will enhance any home or commercial building.

Talk to us about individual, custom-made stonework that emulates natural stone and gives you the exact look you want.

If you have a particular look that you require, our design team can create one-off designs for small or large projects.
